

MADERO TO BE EXILED; GUSTAVO MADERO SHOT

Agreement Reached by S. Relieved From by Generals Diaz and Huerta

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 20 (Thursday).—Preparations for the transportation of the deposed President Madero and Vice President Suarez and their families to Vera Cruz to catch a steamer for Europe were completed at mid night. Almost coincident with the moment that their resignations were being formally read in congress those facing exile arrived at the Mexican railway station where a train was under steam. The party included Mrs. Madero, two sisters of Madero, Angela and Mercedes, and their father Francisco Madero Sr.

Mrs. Suarez and their children accompanied her husband. There was also a number of close friends of both families who accompanied them to Vera Cruz.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19.—Francisco Madero deposed from the presidency yesterday will be exiled. Arrangements have been made for his departure tonight from the capital for Vera Cruz. From there he will sail for some European port.

Madero will be accompanied by his wife and perhaps by his father and other members of his family.

His loyal aide, Capt. Frederico Montes, also will go but in the capacity of a guard. The party will proceed to Vera Cruz under escort.

The execution of Gustavo Madero, brother of the deposed president, was the most tragic occurrence of today. He was subjected to the "fugiti" law and was shot to death by his guards.

The members of the cabinet and most of the other prisoners were released this morning. Francisco Madero, Jose Pino Suarez, the vice president, and Frederico Gonzales Garza, governor of the federal district, were the only important prisoners held. General Madero, the former finance minister, paid a lengthy visit this afternoon to Francisco.

Diaz and Huerta Agree

General Huerta, who has assumed the post of governor general, and General Diaz had an extended conference, after which it was announced that they were in complete accord. Later General Huerta was in conference with the American ambassador, Henry Lane Wilson.

A group of senators discussed the question of the presidency with General Huerta, who it is understood will receive the appointment of provisional president at the hands of congress, a meeting of which body has been called.

Already forced to face plots, the new administration caused the arrest tonight of General Francisco Romero. Romero is accused of complicity with Francisco Cosío Robelo in a new revolt. The plot involves a group of purales.

Charge Madero With Murder

At the instigation of the government, Madero has been held formally responsible for the death of Colonel Riveroll, which occurred at the palace at the time of Madero's arrest.

Conflicting stories are in circulation regarding the slaying of Riveroll, but it is stated officially that Madero shot him with a pistol.

In a statement made tonight, General Huerta says that two attempts were made against his life before the arrests, and he attributes both of them to the Maderos. The first attempt was made by a sharpshooter, who tried to pick him off while in the palace. This, General Huerta laid, at the door of the ex-president.

The second attempt was made at the banquet, which culminated in Gustavo Madero's arrest. Huerta says he was repeatedly urged to drink poison.

IN ONE HOUR, MEXICO HAS THREE PRESIDENTS

General Huerta Is Legally Installed as Provisional Head of Republic of Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19.—General Victoriano Huerta became provisional president of Mexico tonight. He took the oath of office at 11:25 o'clock, succeeding Pedro Lascurain.

Prior to the naming of General Huerta, he was appointed a cabinet minister, so that the legal succession to the presidency would be maintained. Pedro Lascurain took the oath as president ad interim in his capacity as minister of foreign affairs. The naming of Senor Lascurain by congress at a prolonged session, beginning about 4 o'clock, was merely incidental, and was followed soon by the election of General Huerta to the presidency.

February 19 will be remembered as the date on which Mexico had within an hour three presidents. One of them, Francisco I. Madero, had been deposed, but he legally retained his title until the resignation tonight of himself and

They made a canvass of the business district, and in a number of stores telling a tearful story of poverty succeeded in getting large donations.

Northern Mexico Quiet.
EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 19.—Northern Mexico today awaited a settlement of the national dilemma. Gen. Antonio Rabago, commander of the northern military zone, was notified of General Huerta's claim to the presidency. He remains neutral, ordering his officers merely to keep order. Gov. Abraham Gonzalez of Chihuahua state is reported to have resigned. He was one of the organizers of the Madero revolution.

At Chihuahua City, the state capital, and at Juarez, on the border, the condition was threatening. The volunteer troops appear unplaced with Huerta or provisional president and openly threaten to join the rebels. At Juarez an attempt failed to disarm the volunteers. Throughout the north the irregular troops, officered by minor ex-insurrecto chiefs, who assisted in the Madero revolution, nearly equal in force to the regulars. Should these join with the rebels the regulars would be outnumbered. The regular troops, largely in sympathy with Diaz, are expected to accept without question the dictatorship of Huerta until elections may be held.

The play for recognition of the northern revolution contained in General Huerta's provisional cabinet seems to have failed in effect. Col. David de la Fuente, chief of staff of General Salazar's rebel army, named as minister of communications in the Huerta program, already has pledged himself to the revolution of Emilio Vasquez Gomez, and now is in the field with the rebel forces below Juarez. Having accepted a position on the Vasquez Gomez cabinet it is not believed that De la Fuente can accept the Mexico City offer. His appointment on the Huerta cabinet evidently was made without knowledge of his activity in the Vasquez Gomez revolutionary plan. Representatives of the Vasquez Gomez revolution point out that Mexico today has no constitutional government, but two presidential pretenders, Huerta, as a result of the Mexico City uprising, and Vasquez Gomez, representing the various rebel factions long in the field, and likely to be joined now by the Madero elements including the federal volunteers.

CANANEA, Mex., Feb. 19.—Developments in Mexico City seem to be viewed by prominent Mexicans here with apprehension and distrust, except by the followers of Diaz, who are pleased at the overthrow of Madero. All declare, however, that anything is preferable to intervention by the United States.

The general belief is that yesterday's coup will not result in peace, but that the Maderistas will take up arms against the establishment of a military form of government, which appears likely and which but few northern Mexicans appear to desire.

Other Rebels Are Quiet.

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 19.—Without formally accepting the new order in Mexican affairs, Pascual Orozco, Sr., and Andres Garza Galan, leaders of the rebels in control of Nuevo Laredo, informed General Felix Diaz today that they would remain passive until they knew definitely who would serve as temporary president of the republic. The two leaders made it clear that General Huerta would not be acceptable to them as provisional president and should his appointment be confirmed they intended they would continue their campaign until Senor de la Barra or some other man acceptable to all factions was named.

Direct telegraphic communication from Nuevo Laredo to Mexico City will be established tomorrow, when all federal telegraph operators, who fled to the United States when Nuevo Laredo was occupied by the rebels will return to work.

Change Satisfactory.

CHIHUAHUA, Mex., Feb. 19.—The change in the government at Mexico City was decidedly satisfactory to the inhabitants of this city after two years of disorders and business stagnation under the rule of President Madero. The news was received quietly, however.

The federal troops here who had remained loyal to the Madero government now are recognizing General Huerta and General Diaz. It is expected that the rebels under General Inez Salazar and General Antonio Rojas and other insurgents operating in Chihuahua will cease operations soon. The general outlook is peaceful.

Tentative Cabinet.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19.—The election by congress of General Huerta to the provisional presidency of Mexico is regarded as probable. It is said that he will appoint Francisco De la Barra his minister of foreign affairs and Gen. Manuel Mondragon his minister of war.

Mondragon was Diaz's chief lieutenant at the arsenal.

Later considerable opposition to the election of Huerta as provisional president was apparent in the lobby of the chamber of deputies. It was thought possible that a friendly fight between his partisans and those of Felix Diaz would develop.

In any event it is believed that the cabinet will include De la Barra, Mondragon, Reyes and De la Fuente. The "provisional cabinet," it is believed, will be composed as follows: Foreign minister—Francisco De la Barra; War minister—Gen. Manuel Mondragon; Finance minister—Carlos G. De Cosio.

Minister of fomento—Albert Gil; Minister of interior—Alberto Garcia Granados; Minister of justice—Rodolfo Reyes; Minister of public instruction—Jorge Vera Estanol; Minister of communications—David De la Fuente.

Colquitt Asks for Troops.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 19.—Governor Colquitt of Texas sent a telegram today to United States Senator Culberson in which he asserted that "the present federal policy toward this state is an outrage," and urged that efforts be made to have additional United States troops assigned to patrol duty along the Mexican-Texas border.

"If I am compelled to take the situation in hand, I will do so vigorously," said the governor in his telegram. "Definite action should be taken by the federal government and protection given by garrisons of troops or the government should advise us that nothing will be done and let us look out for ourselves. We will not hesitate to protect our people if we can be advised that the federal government will not do so."

Governor Colquitt advised Senator Culberson that the situation along the border has been growing worse daily. From all along the Rio Grande, the governor declares, frantic appeals have been made to him for protection.

Brother Collapses.

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Evaristo Madero, brother of the former president of Mexico, and of Gustavo Madero, collapsed when he was shown a dispatch today telling of his brother's execution. He retired to his room in the Spanish-American club at Cornell university, and for some time would not admit his friends. Only a few days ago he received a reassuring telegram from his sister-in-law, the wife of Gustavo Madero. He could not believe today's news at first, he said. Madero graduated from the Cornell state college of agriculture this week and will leave at once to join his sister-in-law, who is in Monterey.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19.—The work of loading supplies on the transport Meade was completed tonight and the vessel now is anchored in the Delaware river, ready to proceed to Guantanamo, with 1,500 marines, at daybreak tomorrow. The marines were taken aboard early, but the last supplies were not placed aboard until 9 o'clock tonight.

To Continue Investigations.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—A resolution to extend until next December the period of activity of the senate special committee appointed to investigate alleged support by Americans of the revolutionary forces in Mexico, was introduced in the senate today by Senator Smith of Michigan, with the endorsement of the senate committee on foreign relations.

The resolution states that the committee has found it impossible to complete its work. Senator Smith probably will have one or two more witnesses before the committee, within the next few weeks.

WORK AS GOVERNOR? FINISHED---WILSON

Signs Seven Antitrust Bills.

Trust Measure Effective

on July 4

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 19.—Governor Woodrow Wilson, after a talk with the Democratic members of the legislature today, in which various bills that probably will be passed by the assembly were discussed, said that with the passage of these measures he regarded his work for New Jersey practically completed.

Governor Wilson will send his resignation to the secretary of state next week to take effect March 1. He will be succeeded as governor by State Senator Fielder, president of the senate.

At the meeting between Governor Wilson and the Democratic members of the legislature it was decided to support the proposed amendment to the federal constitution for the selection of United States senators by popular vote.

A third proposition, agreed upon, providing for amendment of the primary election laws, so that voters shall express their first and second choice for a nomination.

Governor Wilson signed today the seven antitrust bills passed by the legislature, and which were drafted at his request. With one exception, the bills become effective at once. The main bill, defining trusts and prohibiting agreements and acts designed to directly or indirectly restrain trade and making officers and directors of corporations criminally responsible for violations of the act, will go into effect July 4.

KNOX COMMENDED BY PANAMERICAN UNION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Resolutions commending the efforts of Secretary of State Knox, as chairman of the governing board of the Pan-American union for the last four years, to further amity and friendship between the United States and Latin-America, were adopted unanimously at today's meeting of the governing board of the Pan-American union.

In his valedictory to the Latin-American diplomats in Washington, who compose the board, Secretary Knox asserted that he had "tried to leave nothing undone whereby the United States could testify its sincere wish that each and all of the American commonwealths should go forward in the path of national progress and established well being."

"Sometimes I have heard apprehensions expressed," he continued, "that my country is asserting and abusing a claim of primacy in our western hemisphere and arrogating to itself some undefined dictatorial prerogative to the detriment of ultimate absorption of its neighbors. It has been the constant effort of the president and his constitutional advisers to correct any such malevolent impressions. Time and again have we demonstrated that if it has been given to us to exert influence upon the countries of panamerica it has ever been our steadfast purpose to use that influence rightfully and benignly in the direction of the independence, the stability and the prosperity of all of our countries."

Rockefeller Foundation Is Favored in Majority Report to the U. S. Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—That the proposed $100,000,000 Rockefeller foundation for benevolent purposes constitutes the safest disposition that can be made of that portion of John D. Rockefeller's immense fortune, is the conclusion expressed in a majority report from the senate judiciary committee to the senate today recommending the passage of the Rockefeller foundation bill.

"This money is now in the control of a private individual who could, if he chose, direct its use to purely private ends for a considerable period after his own death," says the report. "Instead of this, he proposes to place it, subject to congress, in control of a body of men now actually administering well-known charities of acknowledged usefulness."

In an opposing report, Senator Culberson attacks the proposed incorporation for the Rockefeller fortune on the ground that it might give federal protection for 50 or 100 years to great amounts of securities of the Standard Oil company or other monopolies.

Bill Has Been Changed.

The majority report says the bill has been changed so that all danger of an unrestricted perpetuation of the Rockefeller foundation is done away with. The choice of successors to the original incorporators must be approved under the terms of the bill by the president of the United States, the chief justice of the supreme court, the president of the senate, the speaker of the house and the presidents of Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Johns Hopkins and Chicago universities.

"The proposed foundation," says the report, "is an exception among charitable trusts in that the element of perpetuity practically has been removed. While it is eminently fitting that Congress should scrutinize with the utmost care the provisions of such a character, with a view to remedying defects and preventing abuses, it also is fitting that congress should recognize the possibilities of good to this country and to humanity that are inherent in a great philanthropic endowment, properly safeguarded and wisely administered, and that it should welcome the opportunity of giving the sanction and encouragement of government to the great enterprise contemplated by this bill."

Culberson Takes Other View.

In his opposition, Senator Culberson takes the opposite view of protection given the public by the proposed incorporation.

"It is not sound policy to concentrate and tie up in the hands of a few men such a vast sum of money," he says. "So also, the policy is unsound of chartering a corporation with such power and putting no limit or restriction on the character of the vast funds which are to be received by it for use and distribution without legal check or hindrance. Will the funds be in part, or in whole, the securities of the Standard Oil trust or other gigantic monopolies?"

"It seems clear to me that congress should not thus encourage and foster the massing and holding together of such vast finances nor lend its authority to the perpetuation of the fruits of combinations and conspiracies against the public weal."

Broadway Shoppers Capture Burglars

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Rush-hour throngs on Broadway witnessed an attempted holdup this afternoon, gave first aid to the victim and captured one of the assailants.

The holdup was attempted by two men who entered the jewelry establishment of Henry K. Bieker & Co., in the financial section. They wanted to buy diamond earrings, they said. A clerk brought out a tray containing $5,000 worth for their inspection. They knocked him down, grabbed the gems and bolted for the door. The clerk regained his feet in time to catch the man with the tray and held the burglar until a crowd came to his relief.

The prisoner said he was John Cahill, a teamster, but central office detectives declared that he was Thomas Kelley, a member of the notorious "gas house" gang.

OLD-TIME BEHAVIOR IN THE SENATE

From Chicago Inter-Ocean.

From a summary last Monday of the news of January 27, 1903:

"In the Senate, Saulsbury of Delaware made a violent speech, terming President Lincoln 'an imbecile.' Vice President Hamlin called him to order and, as he persisted, ordered the sergeant-at-arms to take him into custody. The Senator drew and flourished a revolver. He was taken from the room, but soon returned and resumed his speech. Ordered to take his seat, he finally did so, swearing and shaking his fist."

CONSIDER MEASURES FOR REGULATION OF THE MONEY TRUST

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The house money trust investigating committee began today consideration of the financial regulation legislation which will be recommended in its report. The committee discussed informally the evils disclosed by the hearings and possible remedial laws. No action was taken and the report will not finally be framed until Samuel J. Tamm, counsel for the committee, arrives in Washington at the end of the week. The committee expects to submit the report by February 27.

A variety of legal difficulties confronting the committee in framing regulations for stock exchanges and clearing houses were discussed today. The opinion was general that the federal government would have great difficulty in prescribing rules and regulations for stock exchanges throughout the country, particularly the New York stock exchange. Several members of the committee held that these institutions were entirely under the jurisdiction of the various states. With this in mind the committee has sent for copies of the bills regulating the New York stock exchange proposed by Governor Sulzer of New York. The scheme of prohibiting the listing of interstate commerce corporations on exchanges which failed to comply with certain rules, was suggested.

A similar suggestion exists as to the clearing houses, although it was suggested that the committee could secure proposed reforms by prohibiting national banks from joining clearing house associations which either failed to incorporate or failed to observe certain prescribed rules. Practically all of the committee's recommendations necessarily will be based upon the jurisdiction of congress over national banks and interstate corporations.

Laws forbidding directors of national banks from accepting a bonus from borrowers for granting loans and forbidding interlocking of directors in national banks also were discussed.

IMMIGRATION BILL DEFEATED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The house today refused by a vote of 213 to 111 to pass the Dillingham-Burnett immigration bill over the president's veto. Five votes changed from the negative to affirmative would have given the two-thirds necessary to override the veto.

Before the result was announced, Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, one of the leading advocates of the bill, changed his vote to "no" and after the announcement moved to reconsider the vote. Speaker Clark overruled the motion, going back to the time of Speaker Jones of Virginia, in 1844, for the only recorded precedent on the subject.

Representative Gardner appealed from the decision of the chair, but a motion by Democratic Leader Underwood to lay the motion on the table blocked the attempt to continue the contest. The fight centered on the literacy test feature of the bill and the result was a distinct surprise, even to those most earnestly opposed to the measure.

TUBERCULAR BILL PASSED IN SENATE

DENVER, Feb. 19.—The senate passed today the Reynolds tubercular bill providing that all physicians must immediately inform the state and county health authorities when summoned to attend tubercular cases. The bill is similar to the one voted by former Governor Shaffroth two years ago. The senate election committee has not finished its work in the Barlow-Wycoff contest, though taking of testimony has been abandoned. Friday will be devoted to arguments before the committee.

MISS WILSON AND COL. ROOSEVELT INTERESTED IN CHILD LABOR BILLS

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Miss Mary Wilson, who is here on a day's visit, and Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who is here on a day's visit, are both interested in the child labor bills now pending in the state legislature. In explaining her interest in the bills, Miss Wilson said: "I am interested in all measures that will help to improve the condition of the child laborer. I believe in the right of every child to a fair and healthy life. I am sure that the child labor bills will be improved wherever practical and possible."

In his letter, which was read by Miss Wilson, Col. Roosevelt said: "Any measure which will help to improve the condition of the child laborer is one which I have my hearty support. The Wagner bill, which is the best of the bills now pending, is a measure which I believe will be improved wherever practical and possible."

The exemption of children from the child labor law under the legal interpretation of the 1906 act, which was in the nature of a declaration of independence on the part of American art, proclaimed against foreign artistic conventions. The danger of the exhibit having been given "The Herring Dipper" No. 21, the place of honor. It has been exhibited in the Museum of Fine Arts in Chicago, and has received no little favorable comment throughout the country. The canvas depicts an old fisherman in the early morning light, sorting fish that have been caught in the nets. The manner of treatment is rather striking and is one of a number in which Little shows a leaning toward ideas of more pronounced impressionism.

By the way of contrast, No. 9, "The July Moon," doubtless will receive considerable attention. The scene is one that the artist has witnessed many times from his own window, with the light of Hendrick's lighthouse and the moon's rays streaking across the water in parallel lines.

First Startles, Then Attracts.

In No. 20, "Rainy Night in Washington, D. C.," Little has painted a picture that artists of the older school probably would have refused to consider seriously. It depicts dark and shadowy buildings, filmy figures and streaks and swirls of artificial lights—all done in a manner that first startles the spectator and then attracts close inspection. Those at the reception and view last night were divided as to the merits of the canvas, some thought it one of the finest in the exhibit, while others passed it by without comment.

"Minnesota Flour Mills in Winter," No. 18, is another illustration of how Little has absorbed the methods of the new school. Flour mills, whether they be in Minneapolis or Madagascar, do not sound particularly interesting, but those pictured here by the artist are made quite romantic by the impressionistic style. Without the catalogue one might see a close resemblance in the picture to some old castle in France, but the catalogue tells you that it is a flour mill, that it is in Minneapolis and that it is winter.

The artist's paintings of marines and woodland scenes are all according to the new movement. Blues and purples are used almost entirely for shadows. Instead of the browns and earth tones, which are so religiously heretofore, and at times it is rather difficult to decide whether the impressionists are painting nature truthfully or simply spreading on a mass of color with a bold brush and trying to make nature stand for it.

The art society has secured very comfortable quarters in the Federal building for the present exhibit, which will continue for the next 10 days. Last night some 200 guests attended the view, and the pictures are pronounced to be of the same high standard as those which made up the collection displayed here last month.

McCracken and Hubbard furnished the room for the art society, and the accommodations are amply adequate for the many hundreds who are expected to take advantage of this opportunity to see something of the new idea in art that is making a strong bid for recognition and popularity.

SOCIALISTS WOULD HAVE MINERS STRIKE IF WAR IS CALLED

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 19.—The Illinois State Miners' convention, in session here today, adopted a resolution providing that the $2,000 miners in the state go on record as favoring a general strike whenever war is declared either by or against the United States. The resolution is to be sent to the International Mine Workers convention and that body will be asked to concur in the action, so that in case war is declared between any nation, a universal strike of the coal miners will be called. President John H. Walker and all of the officers spoke in favor of this action. Of the seven members of the resolutions committee which presented the matter to the convention, all but one, Evan Evans, the chairman, were Socialists, and the Socialist wing of the convention carried matters by storm in the discussion. The government, the standing army and the so-called "capitalist" press were bitterly scored by the speakers. Imports of coal are now almost three times as large as they were ten years ago, and the price has increased only 20 per cent, while the price of coal is actually less than in 1902.

G. O. P. May Have a Special Convention to Change Rules

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The proposed reform of the national convention next fall, which the rules committee of the House of Representatives is now considering, may be a subject of discussion at a special convention of the G. O. P. held in New York and Senator Crane of Missouri asserted. "I am in favor of holding a Republican convention at some convenient time next fall or winter," said Senator Crane, who was chairman of the Chicago convention last June, "for the purpose of doing these things."

Senators also discussed the convention plan. No definite steps have been taken toward issuing a call for the convention. R. R. MEN TAKE NOTICE. Conductor S. L. MYLIUS IS ALLOWED TO ENTER UNITED STATES

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Edward F. Mylius, the English journalist, convicted of libeling King George of England, and detained at Ellis Island, today entered the United States upon a writ of habeas corpus sustained by Federal Judge Noyes. Secretary Nagel announced, as in the Castro case, he would appeal direct to the supreme court. Judge Noyes, in his decision, held that Mylius was not convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude. Mylius left Ellis Island today, declaring that he was ready for a new start in life.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—An explosion early today partially wrecked a country residence in course of construction for Chancellor of the Exchequer David Lloyd-George at Walton Heath near London. A bomb had been placed in one of the rooms of the residence, which is a modest one adjoining the golf links on which Lloyd-George plays. The infernal machine was so powerful that the thick walls of the house split in all directions and most of the rooms were wrecked. Two seven-pound cans of black powder had also been placed in two separate rooms among heaps of wood shavings which had been saturated with oil and in the center of which burning candles had been fixed. The only clues obtained by the police are two broken hat pins which were found among the ruins. It was declared by neighbors that an automobile containing several women passed through the village in the early hours. Nobody was injured by the explosion. The house was not yet occupied.

CARDIFF, Wales, Feb. 19.—"We have blown up the chancellor of the exchequer's house," said Mrs. Emmeline Bankhurst, addressing an enthusiastic meeting of suffragettes here tonight. "The authorities need not look for women who actually did it. I personally accept full responsibility for it."

Mrs. Bankhurst declared that if she were sent to penal servitude she would go on a hunger strike.

"The government then will have to set me free," she added, "or let me die. If I drop out a hundred women are ready to take my place."

BULGAR-ROUMANIAN CONTROVERSY GRAVER

RAILROAD REGULATION

THERE is a right way and a wrong way to regulate railroads and other corporations. The right way brings results, the wrong way does not. The right way is illustrated by those states that have adopted effective utilities commission laws; the wrong way is in effect in those states that attempt to regulate only by hard and fast statutory provisions.

Colorado must choose one or the other of these two methods. In the present legislature induced, perhaps, by the withdrawal of passes—are many bills aimed at the railroads, such as the full train crew bill, the electric headlight bill, the block signal bill, and the various passenger fare bills. All these bills, too, aim at effecting needed reforms.

But the trouble is, reforms, if they come at all in this way, come only very slowly. It is almost impossible, for instance, to pass a bill fixing railway fares that will not be unjust and confiscatory with respect to some railroad—and thus the whole bill would be thrown out by the courts. And, even if such a bill should be held constitutional—and most of such bills have not—it would be years before it would complete its gauntlet of the courts.

So with all these other measures. Each would be fought bitterly in the courts by the railroads; many of them, possibly, would fall by the waysides. It will take Colorado years to secure any effective control over her railroads if each step is to require a statutory enactment.

New York, Wisconsin, California and dozens of other states have pointed the right way. That is, regulation by a public service commission. Several bills providing for such a commission have been introduced into the present Colorado legislature. The best of them, undoubtedly, is the Persons bill, modeled after the Wisconsin measure, and approved by the National Civic federation. But they all give to the utilities commission ample powers of control over both the rates and service of all utility corporations, including railroads.

And is it not better to leave these various matters of detail with the commission? It will be the business of the commission to fix passenger and freight rates as low as the traffic of each individual line will afford. It will be its business to compel the installation of block signal systems where they are needed. It will be its business to see that trains are manned by crews as large as safety demands.

And the commission will be capable of doing this, where the legislature is not. The commission, it is to be hoped, will be composed of experts. They will take up each individual case on its merits. Their rules will apply where needed; where not needed they will not apply. Few members of the legislature are railroad experts. Their laws, furthermore, must apply to all roads alike; laws cannot be framed that can possibly be as flexible, or so well meet the needs of the railroads and of the people, as the orders of a commission.

That the railroads of Colorado must be made responsible to the people of Colorado all will agree. It is greatly to be hoped that the legislature will show wisdom by the method it adopts for securing this responsibility. It will do this only if it passes a thorough-going utilities law. Against such the railroads will have no cause of complaint; they are working under utilities commissions in most of the states of the West. And it is only through a commission that a state can deal adequately with ALL the phases of railway and utility operation.

HALTING JUSTICE

JUST why the people of Denver should be put to the heavy expense of a second trial of Harold F. Henwood, who killed two men and wounded another in a barroom fight, is a question the answer to which is as unsatisfactory as it is easy. Henwood and one of his victims, von Phul, quarreled over a woman; they met in a hotel barroom, and Henwood blazed away with a revolver, killing von Phul and a bystander named Copeland, and inflicting a wound on a third bystander from which he has never recovered. His trial, which resulted in conviction and a sentence to life imprisonment, was regarded as fair and the sentence as absolutely just. To the lay mind there appears no valid reason for another trial, but Henwood had plenty of money and the ability to hire counsel clever enough to trump up a technicality on the strength of which the Supreme Court granted his appeal.

Every such incident adds to the constantly increasing popular distrust of the law and the courts. If Henwood were a penniless bum there is every reason to suppose that he would spend the rest of his days in prison with no hope of getting an undeserved new trial. But fortunately for himself he isn't—which often makes a difference.

FEDERAL MONEY FOR EXPOSITIONS

THE business of raising the United States Treasury for money with which to conduct big expositions has become less popular than it was a few years ago. It began in 1876 when Congress helped the Philadelphia Centennial, but was first attempted on a big scale for the Chicago fair in 1892. Within the next ten years a number of expositions of varying degree of magnitude were held, and the promoters of all of them were careful to establish direct communications with Uncle Sam's check book. Buffalo, Jamestown, Omaha, Atlanta and perhaps two or three others received government subsidies, and of course the money never was returned.

Then came the St. Louis exposition of 1904 which set a new high-water mark by getting a Federal appropriation of five million dollars outright. But even this was not enough, and before the gates were opened the managers applied to Congress for a loan of five and one-half millions. Previously such "loans" had been granted without security and with the knowledge that they would never be repaid. But this time popular opposition to the practice had become so strong that Congress took the precaution of taking a lien on the gate receipts. An agent of the Treasury Department was installed at every entrance to the fair grounds and Uncle Sam took everything in sight until the loan was fully paid.

As a condition precedent to getting Federal sanction of its fair in 1915 San Francisco agreed not to ask for a government donation. But just the same it is now clamoring for an appropriation for a government building and exhibit. Of course this will have to be met, for it would not do for the United States government to be unrepresented, or even inadequately represented, at a great exposition in which all foreign nations will participate lavishly. But just the same the episode will vastly increase the difficulties of the future, fair promoters who may want Federal aid.

NAVAL RIVALRY

ADMIRAL VON TIRPITZ, the German Naval Secretary, recently declared in a speech that "a sensible agreement" with Great Britain on naval policy would be "something to be welcomed." This intimation that Germany is at last getting tired of the expensive race for naval supremacy ought to be warmly approved in both countries, for both are steadily nearing financial exhaustion. England has been forced to abandon the old standard which required a naval strength equal to that of any other two powers. Some time ago the First Lord of the Admiralty announced the intention of maintaining a proportion of sixteen British to ten German dreadnoughts, but it is doubtful whether even this could be done indefinitely if Germany saw fit to continue the race.

The cost of militarism is the most crushing burden borne by the civilized world today, and in this very fact lies the only hope of solution. So long as nations can afford to pay the price they will continue to build battleships and equip armies in times of peace. The fact that it has brought some of them almost to the verge of bankruptcy may lead to the discovery of an effective substitute, which never would be sought for other reasons.

A FEW QUESTIONS.
To the Editor of The Gazette:
Will arresting and imprisoning girls of questionable character clean our city of vice? Is the minimum wage enough to furnish a good livelihood? Have the majority of these girls fallen from choice? Is work so plentiful that no one needs want for an opportunity to earn an honest living? If wages are large enough for the poorest paid girl to have three whole meals a day, a good bed and room, at least three changes of clothing and a couple of dollars a week for pleasure and sickness, if there is work when she wants it, then if she is immoral from choice and not from poverty—she is a subject for an asylum, not a prison, for something is wrong in her process of makeup.

Can a girl live on $6 a week and be healthy and free from the evil influence of vice? If she can, how about the girl that averages less than $5? I know quite a few girls who get less than $5 a week, who have no parents or relatives to help them out and in some cases they are mothers with children to care for. Are you not spending your money in a wrong direction? Wouldn't it be better to save money and use it for the purpose of making wages large enough and work enough for all? But it is a wonderful system that will furnish money and others to drive our sisters lower than they have already fallen, but not one cent to lift them up! All the conditions named exist in a city where Pike's Peak and the divide divide extreme wealth and bitter poverty.

THE KING'S ENGLISH

From the New York Sun.
The plea that Sir Herbert Beerhohn Tree advanced for a uniform pronunciation of English is academically interesting, but we fear that he proposes an ideal that is not likely to be attained. We are all too wedded to our pet forms of speech to alter or modify them; more important still, we are too much attached to the traditional fashions that are supposed to be employed by those whose pronunciation differs from our own to tolerate any change in the direction of uniformity.

The elimination of the typical "Yankee" from the English stage or of the typical Englishman from the American stage would in truth be a calamity to both peoples not lightly to be contemplated. Neither character bears the faintest resemblance to its supposed prototype, but both are precious traditions, and we could not bear to part with either. It is all very well for Sir Herbert to take exception to the pronunciation "fawney" which is imputed to him in an interview. Of course he doesn't say "fawney"; not does any other educated Englishman; but it is that immortal American tradition declares that he ought to say it, and say it at any rate in print. As well might an American object that he does not always or universally speak down his nose or preface every sentence with "Well, I guess," or "Say, I calculate." British traditions has declared that this manner of speech shall be distinguishing characteristic, the hallmark by which he may easily be recognized, even as it has declared that from Kentucky to the Pacific coast the inhabitants of the United States shall be generically classed as "Yankees."

It is useless to kick against the pricks. The English duke, as played by the comedian of an American stock company, will continue to drop his "his" and broaden his "his" as long as there is an "his" or an "his" in the language susceptible of mal-treatment, and the "Yankee" of the English stage will go on "guessing" and "calculating" in a ridiculous costume and a nasal tone to the end of time. We would not have it otherwise.

What Emphasis Can Do

By RUTH CAMERON.

What wonderful things inflection and emphasis can do.

What a tremendous difference they make in the meaning of language. With one emphasis a certain set of words may mean one thing; with another, something entirely different. Accent and inflection are to language what expression is to the human face. They are the color pigments with which we, the artists, shade and tint our speech.

Take for instance, this epigram of the mental scientist. "We are not what we think we are, but we think we are." How completely the slight emphasis on the word "think" and the tiny pause after it change the meaning of the five words.

Here's another example. Say you have made a choice between two articles, two waistcoats, or two parasols or what not, and you say to someone, "I hope I'll make the right choice this time." Now you can say these words with two different inflections, and convey two absolutely different meanings. One will make it evident that you think you made the wrong choice before and hope you will do better this time. The other inflection will convey the meaning that you chose right before and hope you will again, and yet you are using exactly the same five words.

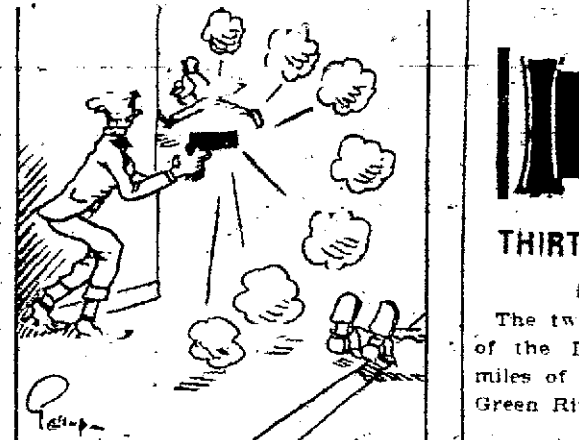

Try it for yourself. Say them with the one idea in your head, and then with the other, and see how slight a change of emphasis and inflection you make, and yet how plainly different your meanings are. And now I can feel my practical minded reader inquiring, what I'm driving at, what the point and the moral of all this is. Need there be any? Isn't it just an interesting subject, worth sending a train of thought into?

But if there must be a moral, I think I can find one very easily. Two, in fact. In the first place, since you have seen how easily accent and emphasis, the expression of language, can change the meaning of any set of words, always have this in mind when dealing with the written word. Remember that what any set of written words appears to convey may differ just as much from what it is intended to convey, and would convey, if spoken with the proper accent and inflection, as an imperfect photograph differs from your friend's face when it is lighted up with love and animation. I believe that more quarrels and misunderstandings, especially among lovers, are caused by attempting to keep up the intimacy by letter, than in any other way. "Not long ago," says Stevenson, "I wrote a letter to a friend which came near involving us in a quarrel; but we met, and in personal talk I repeated the words of what I had written and added words to that, and with the commentary of the body, it seemed not unfriendly either to hear or to say." And the other moral is similar to the first. Since you realize the changing meanings of any set of words, do not ever let the talebearer set you against your friend with the tale of what your friend said against you. Always find out, not only if he said it, but how he said it.

Modern Inventions

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

The magazine revolver is an invention for increasing the efficacy of a fool. It is a very clever invention and is a tribute to American ingenuity and lack of common sense. The magazine revolver has seven or more cartridges in its thorax, and when the trigger is pulled once, it continues emitting death and destruction until its ammunition is exhausted. The magazine revolver was invented for the purpose of discouraging burglars. It was thought if supplied with a revolver, which would take over the details of execution and attend to them with care and faithfulness after it was once turned on the American woman would be better able to make a corner's dividend out of the villain who broke into the house at night and attempted to remove the furniture.

As far as known the death rate among burglars has not been appreciably increased. But the clock rate among pedestrians has gone up until wise insurance companies refuse to grant the inmate of a large city an accident policy unless he travels by aeroplane.

Armed with a magazine revolver—sold at all drug stores and delicatessen shops—a boy of 15 with his brain stirred into a light froth by the literature which makes heroes out of successful desperadoes, can issue forth and fill a fair-sized graveyard inside of a month. He may not be able to hit a signboard at 10 paces with an ordinary revolver, but by turning loose a pocket gatling gun he can generally bring down his quarry on the third or seventh shot. One of the most disgusting features of modern life is the fact that a man may go through four universities perfecting himself for the task of serving humanity, only to meet a 15-year-old 98-pound parody on humanity, who worth with pumps six bullets into him in order that he may search his pockets more conveniently. The increasing cost of poor milk and the decreasing cost of good revolvers are two of the greatest curses of our modern times.

J. M. BARRIE MAKES PUBLIC APPEAL FOR SCOTT FUND

LONDON, Feb. 18.—J. M. Barrie appeals through the newspapers for better public response to the subscriptions to pay the outstanding liabilities incurred by Captain Scott in his polar expedition. Mr. Barrie asserts that Lord Curzon's estimate of $100,000 as necessary to pay Captain Scott's obligations is incorrect, and that $60,000 will cover them. The slowness of the public subscription, Mr. Barrie believes, is due to the fact that the people are waiting to see what action the government may take.

SACRIFICES SELF; TAKES COMPANION'S SENTENCE

PUEBLO, Feb. 19.—Sacrificing himself and deliberately agreeing to go to the penitentiary to satisfy the state for the killing of Antonio Christiano last May, in order that his companion might remain with his wife and seven children, Pasquale Gliberto today was sentenced to from one year to 18 months. Giovanni Gliberto, who also was charged with the killing, was allowed to go free. The men have the same name, but are not related.

THE HASKIN LETTER

INVISIBLE LIGHT

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

In no other way is the progress of science brought home more strikingly than in the development of our knowledge of invisible light. Not only has the scientist discovered rays of light which the human eye has never seen and can never see, but he has found how to use that knowledge for the benefit of our everyday life. He has found rays of light so weak that ordinary glass, however transparent to the vision, shuts it out effectively; and yet they are so strong that billions of germs may be killed merely by coming within the scope of their influence. From the dawn of creation to the present past, they have shed their influence upon men, yet men have been wholly unconscious of their existence. In the few short years that have gone by since their discovery we have demonstrated that even in the inmost of darkness there may be brilliant light.

Such a paradox could not be believed by the ordinary layman did not the eye is sensitive to only a very small proportion of the total radiation that reaches it, a discovery that leads the scientist to believe that if the eye could recognize all this radiation it would reveal a thousand wonders undreamed of. Gradually the scientist is developing refined instruments which are capable of detecting what the human eye cannot perceive, and it is believed that many new things will ultimately be learned through them.

Dr. Wood, World Expert.

Dr. W. Wood, professor of experimental physics at Johns Hopkins university, is one of the world's authorities upon invisible light, and he illustrates some of the remarkable things about invisible light. For instance, he says that if the finger be dipped into zinc oxide and rubbed over a white sheet of paper the eye will be unable to detect the presence of the streaks of the white powder, unless it has been very thickly applied. If, however, that piece of paper be photographed with ultra violet light, it appears to be marked with streaks of charcoal. This experiment led to the deduction that if the moon and planets be photographed with invisible light, substances which do not appear visually might be brought out.

In a demonstration of this theory, Dr. Wood had constructed a 16-inch mirror of 26-inch focus, coated with nickel, which is used in combination with a plate of the new ultra-violet glass, heavily silvered. The region around Arcturus, one of the craters of the moon, was photographed with yellow and then with ultra-violet light. Then two specimens of volcanic tuff were photographed in a similar way. It was found that the one sample, when photographed with ultra-violet light, corresponded identically with the deposit surrounding the crater Arcturus. It was analyzed and found to contain iron and traces of sulphur. Then several rocks were coated with iron oxide, and they were photographed with the ultra-violet rays, but the iron showed none of the peculiarities of Arcturus when so photographed. After this an invisible coating of sulphur was formed on a piece of light grey rock by the application of a fine jet. When it was photographed with the invisible rays it was black, exactly like the crater Arcturus. From this Dr. Wood was able to infer that the spot on the moon is an extensive deposit of sulphur, resulting from vapor ejected from the crater.

Explains Mysteries.

In explaining the mysteries of invisible light before the Royal Institution of Great Britain, Dr. Wood took two pieces of scarlet silk, which could not be distinguished under an incandescent light, and placed them under a Cooper-Hewitt mercury arc lamp, with the result that one continued to appear scarlet, while the other appeared almost black. The mercury lamp gives off almost no red rays, consequently red objects appear almost black. But the other piece of silk was colored with a dye that became fluorescent under the green light of the mercury lamp.

Dr. Wood and Professor Rubens devised a sort of ray filter with which they could separate the visible from the invisible rays of light and with it they were able to isolate the longest heat wave ever discovered. It consists of a box in which is imprisoned an electric spark. The ultra-violet rays of light from it are brought to a focus upon a small circular aperture upon a cardboard screen, and the focal length of the lens is made so great that the visible rays cannot come to a focus at all. Held before the light white paper was black, but when uranium nitrate crystals were substituted the presence of the ultra-violet rays was made manifest by the crystals shining with a brilliant green light.

Metallic mercury vapor shines with a brilliant light when exposed to the invisible ultra-violet rays. Dr. Wood knew something of this, and in order to determine the amount of absorption he sealed up a drop of mercury in an exhausted glass of quartz, and focused the light at the mercury arc, burning in a silica tube, upon the center of the bulb. When the bulb was photographed with a quartz lens, the picture showed a cone of focused rays, precisely as if the bulb were filled with smoke. This is another very good example of how new discoveries may be made by ultra-violet photography.

Many remarkable conditions are revealed when invisible light photographs are made. The usual method of shutting out the visible rays and admitting the infra-red rays of light is to combine a sheet of the densest blue cobalt glass with a solution of bichromate of potash or some suitable orange dye. Here is a picture taken by this method in which the sky is black, and yet the vegetation and the grass appear to be snow-white although the picture comes from sunny Italy. The shadows in this picture are intensely black, since the camera with this filter on, it perceives only the direct light of the sun and does not catch the indirect light of the sky. This is said to be the way things would look to the human eye on the moon, where there is no atmosphere to form a luminous sky.

Use of Metallic Silver.

Quite a different impression would we have of our surroundings if the eye were sensitive only to ultraviolet rays. To see how things would look with them we have to avoid glass, for glass is as opaque to them as a black glass is to the eye. Quartz, however, is transparent to them, and when we find some substance that they can get through and which will yet refuse to recognize the visible rays, we will have solved the problem. Metallic silver is the substance we need, and it is the only substance known that fully recognizes every ultraviolet ray and throws out every visible ray. A very thin film of it must be deposited over the surface of the quartz. With this picture that shows like views of fairyland may be taken, where white appears black as the ace of spades in this light. White flowers in the garden become almost black, and a number of striking contrasts result.

But the most remarkable property of ultraviolet light is not the effect it has upon the photographic plate, but its germicidal qualities. We have long known that the sun's rays tend to kill germs, but it was not until recently that the discovery was made that it was the ultraviolet light, that they contain that does the work. The sun's rays are comparatively poor in ultraviolet light, for but little of it is able to struggle through the entanglements of our atmosphere. Therefore, we must look mainly to artificial sources for our ultraviolet light for germicidal use. The mercury vapor light with a quartz tube is the best source. Ultraviolet rays of small wave length are very noxious to all living cells, and therefore the microbe-killing lamps have to be used with great care. The quartz mercury-vapor lamp is fed by a continuous electrical current. Its running is regulated by a sensitive lamp in the same circuit or by noting its own state of luminosity. To light, the operator simply shakes the thread of mercury until the two poles are connected. Then the lamp is set in normal position, the thread of mercury is broken, but the electric current con-

Second Expedition to Far North Is to Be Made Soon

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—The completion here yesterday of arrangements for the purchase of the Karluk, a 220-ton steam whaler, disclosed plans of Wilhelm Steffansson, discoverer of blonde Eskimos, for a second expedition to the far north. He will sail from San Francisco May 1.

The definite objective of the expedition will be the unexplored portion of the Arctic circle north of Banks Land. Nearly a score of scientists will accompany Steffansson and the vessel will be equipped for a three years voyage. The data which will be compiled will be given to the Museum of Natural History of New York and the American Geographical Society.

The Karluk will proceed first to the Bay of Mercy, northwest Banks Land and will steam thence to the boundary of Prince Patrick island. No white man ever has gone beyond latitude 75 N. in this region. The McClure expedition reached Mercy Bay in 1891 while looking for the Northwest Passage, but the vessel was abandoned and the party returned overland. Steffansson hopes to discover a large quantity of liquor left by the McClure ship, Investigator.

The explorer was told of the land which he hopes to discover by the blonde Eskimos, at Coronation point, Prince Albert land. He will search for several islands said to have been inhabited by a strange race of natives.

The Karluk is a staunch little ship, provided with ample breathing, and said to be fully as seaworthy in the ice fields as Captain Roald Amundsen's Fram.

J. P. Morgan to Build $4,000,000 Bank Home

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Plans for the "finest banking house in the world," according to the announcement of the architects, have been approved by J. P. Morgan and company to replace the present structure, and should be built in the financial district.

The estimated cost of the new building is between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 and this, added to the value of the plot upon which it will be built—about $4,000,000—will make it one of the most valuable pieces of property in the city.

The new building will be severely plain, only four stories high and constructed of Tennessee marble. The three top floors will be suspended from great trusses just below the roof instead of resting on pillars as in ordinary buildings.

The main banking department will occupy the first floor and will contain 15,000 square feet of floor space, the greatest of any private banking firm in the world without a pillar or post.

$35,000,000 WORKING BALANCE, SAYS MACVEAGH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Secretary McLaughlin told the house committee on treasury department expenditures that $35,000,000 in the treasury shows current liabilities was a practically working balance and that in emergencies it could run below that amount.

"There is now an actual surplus in the treasury," said he, "created practically by the sale of $50,000,000 in Panama bonds nearly two years ago."

He said it had been figured out for him that the treasury could have put in the banks during the stagnation of last autumn $50,000,000 without impairing the working balance.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE GOOD AND BAD TRUSTS?

By WALTER LAWSON WILDER

DENVER, Feb. 19.—Is it possible to arrange an antitrust law in such a way that it will prohibit the bad trusts and still leave room for the good trusts? The house yesterday took up this problem in considering the bill to prohibit trusts. The bill is 385, to prohibit trusts. The bill is 385, to prohibit trusts. The bill is 385, to prohibit trusts.

There was further protracted discussion of the bill establishing railroad rates in the state according to mountain and plains districts, the author of the bill, Mr. Sweet, taking the center table and answering questions and leading a general discussion. The sentiment was developed among a considerable number of members, especially from the mountain districts, that there should be a blanket rate for the entire state and 2½ cents a mile was suggested as an equitable rate of this kind. It was stated that this would discriminate against the people of the plains and in favor of those of the mountains. But the mountaineers could not see it that way, one of them suggesting that the law ought to be glad to carry passengers in the sparsely settled districts at a low rate because it is precisely in those districts that settlement is needed and the railroads can benefit themselves by stimulating the passenger business there.

Leave to Commission.

There was also the suggestion on the part of some of the more conservative members that the matter should be properly left to the railroad or public utility commission, and should not be made the subject of a separate bill. The commission, it was thought, would have a much more intimate knowledge and a more accurate information of the elements of the problem of rate making than the house could have, and it would be able to adjust the rates more equitably and fairly than could be done by making two broad districts, as was proposed by this bill. Mr. Sweet, however, said that the decisions of courts of other states clearly showed that the rate-making power belonged to the legislature and the legislature ought to exercise that power.

The house committee, in reporting the antitrust bill, was divided in its recommendations, the majority of the committee favoring more restrictions than those proposed by the interstate commerce law, while the minority report is more lenient. Two instances of the difference are to be found in the cases of ministers of the gospel and members of the board of stock inspection, who would be excluded from the pass privilege if the amendments offered by the majority are adopted by the house.

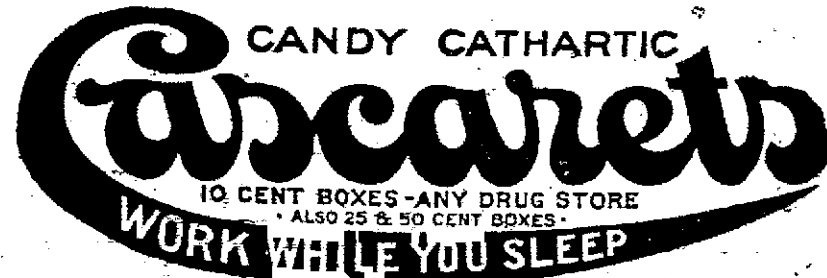

What About Pledges?

Other newspapers are taking up the matter of the delay in the platform pledges of the Democratic party, reference to which was made in these letters a week or more ago. The imposing of a large number of special orders upon the senate calendar, many of the favorites being bills of minor importance, was commented upon in regular session yesterday afternoon and the charge was made that there is a deliberate intention to sidetrack the important platform measures with the hope that they may be neglected when the time of the session is closed with the big reorganization bill.

In this connection, it is only fair to remark that there is a vast difference between passing a plank in a party platform and passing a law in the legislature. In the most cases these platform pledges relate to matters of serious importance, and in many cases, also, they are matters upon which public sentiment is divided. From my own observation I believe that a majority of the members in both houses, and in all parties, are sincerely desirous of keeping faith with the people, but it is not an easy matter to write one of these laws in such a way that it shall be "progressive," fair to all the interests involved, and acceptable to enough of the members of the committee and of the assembly to insure its passage. If anyone doubts this, let him try to write—if he has the time to spare—a public utilities bill, a highways commission bill, or a

M'LEANS TO ENTERTAIN CADETS OF ANNAPOLIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean, which was extended to the entire cadet corps of Annapolis, in which the latter were asked to take lunch with them on inauguration day, has been accepted, and the McLeans are making hurried preparations for a departure from Palm Beach to receive their guests in Washington on the day President Wilson takes the oath of office. Four years ago the McLeans extended a like invitation to the cadets at Annapolis, which also was accepted, but owing to bad weather the guests never reached Washington. Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gum resin and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula. This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equalled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Silver Strike Doubtful

The report of a bonanza silver strike in the Pulpit and district south of the town of Eagle and at the head of Brush creek is received with reserve by those familiar with the conditions of that region. Pulpit has been known as a prospective camp for more than a dozen years, and some rich ore has been found there. But the deposits, like all others west of Aspen, are "pockety," and while it is not regarded as improbable that a body, and perhaps a large body of rich silver ore has been found, the probability of a series of permanent fissure veins, carrying values to depth and sufficient in number and value to form the basis for a new mining district, is quite a different matter. Colorado would be greatly benefited by a new mining camp, but gold veins nearer the main ranges would be more welcome to the experienced judge of Colorado mining conditions and history.

HYDE DEFENSE SCORES; ASK'S CLIENT'S FREEDOM

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 19.—Frank P. Walsh, attorney for the defense, asked that the jury be discharged in the Hyde murder trial, today, and Dr. Hyde be permitted to go free. This request was based on an objection by Mr. Walsh to the form of three hypothetical questions which Senator James A. Reed, special prosecutor, had asked—Dr. Hektoen. The questions related to the cause of death of Christman-Swope and Colonel Swope, and the convulsions of Margaret Swope Miller. Judge Porterfield refused to discharge the jury, or grant the defendant his freedom, but he ruled that the form of the questions was improper.

THE DAY'S NEWS IN SPORT CIRCLES

Frisco Fans Inclined to Give Murphy a Chance

By HARRY B. SMITH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—Jimmy Gans, after all the vicissitudes that have attended this effort, to make a Washington birthday match, can sit back and enjoy his short reign with the Indians in confidence.

Both of his boxers are on the ground and in actual training, and just the ordinary sort of luck will see them in the ring Saturday City next Saturday afternoon. A few days more now, and we will know whether Ad Wolgast is to be entitled to the opportunity of retaining his lost throne or whether he is to be packed away with the balance of the discards.

Ordinarily a defeated champion wouldn't be seriously considered. After Gans was whipped by Nelson the first time it was a foregone conclusion that he would lose again, although the pair were rematched and did box later.

After Wolgast stopped Battling Nelson in 42 rounds at Richmond, the only one who thought that Nelson ought to be granted another match was the name himself. Any number of promoters would have been glad to stage the two boxers, but it is the public that usually decides in such matters, and the public, by its indifference, admitted that Wolgast was too much for the Negro.

With Wolgast as regards his Ritchie match, it is a far different proposition. Whether or not we think that the Michigan lightweight has gone back he didn't lose in a decisive fashion. In fact, not even Ritchie himself cared so much about winning the title on a foul, and a majority of those who watch such affairs don't ordinarily insist that sort of a ruling as finally decisive. Even though there was no question as to a foul having been committed, there are all sorts of arguments as to what might have happened under other circumstances.

Where there is one man who thinks the tide has turned and that Ritchie was winning, there will be another willing to argue with you that Wolgast was far too strong, and would have overcome the knockdown that he suffered.

And so, while you will never reach a point in such a debate, it all goes to show that Wolgast is still very much in the public eye and that he still has many staunch supporters.

Has Murphy a chance of winning against Wolgast? is a question frequently heard.

I should say that he has a very fair chance, all things being considered. Frankly, much depends upon the condition of Wolgast and whether he has dropped back in the last three months. That is something that can only be surmised. If it is true that since his operation for appendicitis, the former champion has lost a great deal of his form, I doubt if there will be seriously disputed. It is fair to presume that since his setback by Ritchie, the German may still be on the down grade. That has been proved to practically the case of every boxer of note and there is no reason to believe that Wolgast will prove the exception to the rule.

His defeat, because of the way it came, probably wouldn't hurt him as much as if he lost the decision. All the same, he isn't going to forget in a hurry that he can be and has been knocked down.

His attitude, when he was in San Francisco just prior to going to Portland was of the don't care attitude, and while he was not dissipating as the term is known, he was none the less relaxed and by no means following strict or even loose training rules. If you will recall the four-round affair with Willie Ritchie, Wolgast showed a lack of judgment in that his punches were slow and again fell short. In Los Angeles, pitted against Rivers, he appeared to be drifting and with Ritchie, after Ad had been winning

JOHNNY KILBANE TOO FAST FOR KIRKWOOD

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champion, practically knocked out George Kirkwood at St. Louis in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round bout here tonight, the referee stopping the contest to save Kirkwood from further punishment.

The champion showed great improvement over the form he had shown in recent bouts here. From the third round on he was master. He knocked Kirkwood down three times in the fifth, and the St. Louis man was on the floor when the bell stopped the referee at the count of nine. Kirkwood came up for the sixth round, but dazed, Kilbane rushed his man and floored him with a hard left whereupon the referee intervened.

Handily, he was knocked down and later disqualified.

The summing up of all these facts leads one to believe that the Michigan Wildcat has passed the heyday of his fame. If such is the case, it is an advantage in favor of Murphy, which the crafty New Yorker will not be slow to act upon.

GRIFFITH TRYING TO DEVELOP NEW STAR

Jacinto Calvo, Cuban, Will Be Given Thorough Trial by the Senators

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—It is probable that the Washington Senators will make any sort of start this season will be given more widespread advertising than any club not actually possessed of a champion pitcher.

The present outlook is for the appearance of a horde of Cuban correspondents about the time that the season starts, and to report the doings of Jacinto Calvo, particularly, and the team for which he is signed, generally. Calvo is going wild over this young outfielder, and when told that a ball player the owners of the Senators newspaper spent no expense to have his doings reported. Hence the probability that at least five Havana sport writers will be in our city on April 10 or thereabouts.

Calvo, who was signed by Griffith last fall during the world series, is at the present time the pride of Havana. He has never played professional ball until this winter, when he joined the Yaguajay club of the Cuban league. Prior to that time he had been on various amateur clubs around Havana, and had made a reputation for himself as a clever fielder and a hard hitter.

He was in the lineup of the native team against the Athletics in their recent series, and was the best hitter that the Cubans presented. In the winter league games he has gone along just about as well.

Griffith will have a good look at the Cuban this spring. The Washington manager is the first man to take a player from the island and develop him so that he became a large league permanently. If Calvo has the goods there is a chance that he may become another Marston. And there are not so very many men in the majors who have it on that Cuban.

Chance Makes Early Start for Spring Camp

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The American League is making an early start for spring camp. The first of the players to report to their respective clubs are expected to arrive in the next few days.

Joe Judge, manager of the Boston Americans, has already received reports from his players who have been in the field for some time. He has also received reports from his players who have been in the field for some time.

The first of the players to report to their respective clubs are expected to arrive in the next few days.

NUNAMAKER SIGNS 3-YEAR CONTRACT

BOSTON, Feb. 19.—Catcher Leslie Nunamaker signed a contract for next year with the Boston Americans. The contract is for three years and includes an increase in salary, but not as much as he had asked.

Pitchers O'Brien, Collins and Hall, catcher O'Brien and outfielder Lewis are at odds with President McAllister over salaries. "But they will be ready to start south with us," the president remarked today.

M'GRAW REACHES MARLIN SPRINGS WITH RECRUITS

MARLIN, Tex., Feb. 19.—Manager John McGraw arrived here today with the advance guard of the New York National league team to begin preparations for the spring training season. McGraw led the way to the ball park almost immediately after his arrival. In the party there are 21 players, seven newspaper men and one official dentist.

DILLON BEATS DENNING

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 19.—Jack Dillon of Indianapolis knocked out Jack Denning of New York in the second round of their scheduled 10-round bout here tonight. Dillon floored the New York fighter twice before the knock-out.

MANY NATIONS FOR BATTERIES

The winter league is now gossiping of the possibility of an Indian battery for the New York Giants. If Jim Thorpe, the great athlete, is used by McGraw as a twirler, with Myers on the receiving end they will surely form a great battery. But the Irish, as usual, lead them all.

Here are some notable batteries in the national list:

- Irish—Ed Walsh and Billy Sullivan.
- Indian—Thorpe and Myers.
- German—Reulbach and Schaik.
- Hebrew—Peltz and Kling.
- Polish—Covaleski and Block.
- Dutch—Lefield and Onslow.
- Swede—Walter, Johnson and Serenoid.
- French—Dubuc and Rondeau.

LAW SCHOOLS

The actual number of law schools in the United States only increased from 102 to 118 in the decade from 1902 to 1912, according to figures compiled at the United States bureau of education, but the number of students studying law in these schools increased from 13,912 to 26,750 in same period. There were 2,524 graduates of law schools in 1912 and 4,234 last year. Law students, having a college degree, doubled in the 10 years.

Financially, the law schools show a remarkable advance. The endowment funds jumped from $50,000 to nearly $2,000,000; the grounds and buildings tripled in value, and the total income in 1912 was $1,368,000, as against $523,000 in 1902. The 387,000 volumes in the law school libraries of 1912 had grown to 926,000 in 1912.

MEL SHEPPARD IN BAD FORM

Mel Sheppard, the famous quarter-miler of the Irish-American A. C., national champion and perpetual Olympic hero, who has suffered a serious covered of form. Poor Mel has decided to lay up a while and may not compete again until the first meet of the spring outdoor season.

WILLIE LEWIS MEETING WITH REVERSES

Willie Lewis, the New York middleweight, who for years has been the idol of fight fans in Paris, lost some of his laurels to a Frenchman, when Adrian Lapoux, fighting under the more pugilistic name of Hogan, scored a decisive victory over Lewis in a 20-round battle recently fought at the French capital. Although Lewis was never considered better than a good second-rater in New York, the Frenchmen have looked upon him as one of the greatest living exponents of the manly art.

Mineral Wells

The Carlsbad of Texas

Worthy of wide publicity is Mineral Wells, Texas, about fifty miles north of Fort Worth, and made famous as a spa by its remarkable collection of curative wells. It is 1,400 feet above sea level, the average winter temperatures being as follows: November, 57 degrees; December, 49 degrees; January, 50 degrees; and February, 51 degrees. Its winter climate is warm, sunny and dry, patients being out of doors most of the time. The surrounding country is a rolling valley rising gradually into the hills, the conditions for riding, driving, motoring and all outdoor sports being ideal.

The sparkling, crystal-clear curative waters have wide-repute as being beneficial, if not curing many ailments, particularly rheumatism, kidney, liver and stomach troubles by their eliminative and tonic effects. The thirty or forty wells are bored to a depth of 150 feet and the water supply is inexhaustible. The drinking pavilions are supplied with every known convenience, as are also the bath houses, and the service is excellent. The fine, large golf course is free to visitors. The hotels are of very high class and there are many places where board may be had.

The Colorado & Southern Lines

What the Press Agents Say

"KINDLING"

Sarah Padden, one of the youngest and most interesting of the popular dramatic stars of the period, comes to the Grand Opera house next Monday, Feb. 24, matinee and night, presenting Charles Kenyon's remarkable play,
"Kindling."

"Kindling" tells of every woman's heart-strings and fills strong men's eyes with tears; it portrays the deep, hidden emotions of humanity whether in palace or hovel.

Maggie Schultz looks forward with terror to the birth of her baby in her dark, unlovely tenement home. She dare not tell her husband, lest he strangle the helpless bit of life when it should come into the world; to him it is little short of murder to bring a helpless child into being, amid such surroundings. It required only a paltry sum to go into faraway Wyoming, a paradise of fresh air and glowing sunlight, where her child could have a chance to grow up strong and decent.
The fateful opportunity presented itself and Maggie could not resist the terrible temptation to steal the money necessary to take them to the land of her dreams. The theft is detected and her husband is dumfounded when she treacherously reveals the truth to him.
"I never thought you were a thief, Maggie," murmurs her husband, brok-enly, overwhelmed with the tragedy that had come upon them.

Fortunately, the people from whom she has taken the money were human enough to understand and to forgive the deed and it is through their aid that Maggie and Heinie turn their

Thirty of the best known writers in America have used their influence and prestige to persuade their friends to see "Kindling" and their efforts, together with the exquisitely human and pathetic figure of Maggie, have brought a tremendous success to the play. It is a vivid, palpitating human document all aquiver with passion and truth and written with a passion of sincerity so ardent as to seem almost ablaze.

The realism of "Kindling" is supreme and merciless. Its fidelity to the life it depicts; the strong and authoritative limning of the people who exist on the lower side of pitiless New York—above all its masterly treatment of a theme of world-wide interest, and vital, its inherent cleanliness, places it amongst the first plays of the day.
The entire production is identically
the same as was used at the Cort theater, Chicago, during an engagement of a hundred nights.

AMUNDSEN'S BIG

HIT IN BOSTON

Capt. Roald Amundsen's illustrated lecture in Tremont Temple last evening on his expedition that discovered the South pole was a great success, the auditorium being crowded and so many being turned away that two repetitions were announced, one for Thursday afternoon, and the other for the same evening.

The great audience was largely composed of persons of Scandinavian birth, or extraction, whose sympathies with the Norwegian explorer and the flag he hoisted at the South pole were naturally very strong. They applauded and cheered him, his flag, and even his ship, Naansen's historic Fram, with enthusiasm whenever opportunity offered.

During the hour and a half that Amundsen talked he did not once refer to himself, his remarks always having allusion to what certain groups of men did or what "we" did. A hearer ignorant of the facts might easily have supposed that the lecturer was an outside party, whose only interest was in telling the story of the exploit.

HEALTH WARNING.
Make every effort to avoid having damp, chilled or wet feet. Chilling the feet results in congesting the internal organs, and inflammation of the kidneys and bladder, with rheumatic twinges and pain in back, generally follow. Use Foley Kidney Pills.
They are the best medicine made for disorders of the kidneys, for bladder irregularities and for backache and rheumatism. They do not contain habit forming drugs. Tonic in action, quick in results. The Robinson Drug

LOS ANGELES GETS SNOW FOR FIRST TIME IN YEARS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19.—Snow fell in Los Angeles today for the first time in many years. Only a trace was recorded at the weather bureau, where the statement was made that the snow was the result of purely local conditions.
